1. OPENING SHOTS

"The cradle of world civilization lies safely enshrined in Greece and its adjacent islands in the Aegean Sea"

So said Phil Wortham, then-editor of Action Front back in April 1981, in his mammoth nine page editorial for the 42nd year of Action Front publication (a scanned copy of Phil's editorial can be found here). I quote Phil here partly because it's a beautifully phrased, and partly because this publication continues on a theme of Greek battlefields on which the 2/2nd fought. We've got a write-up of the 2018 Battle of Crete Ceremony, a summary of the Battle of Greece and Crete panel discussion, and some upcoming events relating to same.

On the last page you'll find your invite to the 79th Annual Luncheon.

As always, please remember to reach out if you'd like to share any writing, history, poetry, photography, or personal news with the regiment. We'd love to hear from you, and you will always find someone willing to collaborate if the execution isn't coming as easily as the idea.

Looking forward to sharing a froth or two at the Annual Luncheon and AGM.
